for fun... flirting... fooling around,

not just for f*cking
HERE’S THE FACTS, NO CAP

Tinder’s purpose, put simply, is to connect users with the people and experiences they’re looking for. But, let’s be honest—Tinder has a reputation...one that may be intimidating to the average romantic.

Through our research, we found that our audience perceives Tinder as a hookup app, making them question if the app can match them with the connections they seek. Our out-of-the-box and bold campaign addresses these concerns and throws them out the window. Tinder isn’t just for f*cking; it’s for whatever the f*ck you want.

Our campaign seeks to shatter the stigmas surrounding dating apps and instead emphasizes the possibilities that users can experiment with to fit their individual needs. This builds brand love by promoting inclusivity, open-mindedness, and a “no-pressure” environment, reiterating that Tinder is an app for everyone to use.

In this digital age, our target audience needs a good reason to download yet another app to spend time on. This is where our campaign will stand out—we’ll target our audience with original, interactive messaging that is honest, accessible, and consistent with Tinder’s brand.

Team 516 cuts to the chase in its bold campaign—it’s not just for f*cking.

Through brand partnerships, influencer marketing, pop-up events, and exclusive Tinder merch, we will build brand love and increase brand consideration, preference, and positive sentiment. Our campaign will also increase growth in registrations among 18-19-year-olds by convincing Gen Z that swiping is a low stakes, easy, and carefree way to meet people and start new relationships.

So without further ado, let’s swipe right in.
Team 516’s research employed multifaceted primary research, such as surveys and in-depth interviews, as well as extensive secondary research including articles, observational studies, research papers, and behavioral studies.

TARGET AUDIENCE

Our target audience is 18-19-year-olds, considered part of Generation Z, who are transitioning into the next stage of their lives. They crave independence, excitement, and opportunities to meet new people. However, Gen Zers are hesitant to register for Tinder because they perceive it as a hookup app, and don’t want to be judged by friends and peers based on their usage.

PROBLEM STATEMENT

Our target audience is hesitant to register for Tinder because they don’t see a purpose for the app at their current age and stage of life. In addition, they want to avoid being associated with the negative hookup reputation that Tinder currently holds.

RESEARCH

PRIMARY RESEARCH

- 26 In-depth Interviews
- 32 States Represented
- 531 Survey Responses
- 184 Secondary Resources

50% of survey participants say their primary use for Tinder is ‘just for fun,’ but they don’t see their usage increasing due to its hookup reputation.

43% of survey participants have not used Tinder, primarily because they don’t see a need for it in their daily lives.

82% of Gen Zers trust their friends and family over any other source when making a purchase decision or engaging with new brands.

SECONDARY RESEARCH

- 141 Articles
- 34 Observational Studies
- 14 Research Papers
- 6 Behavioral Studies

9 million users have joined online dating apps since 2017 in the United States alone. However, online dating still faces a negative social stigma.

99% of social media users access platforms, such as Instagram, TikTok, and Pinterest, via their mobile devices.

6 in 10 Gen Zers agree it’s possible to have a meaningful friendship through purely online interactions.
GETTING TO KNOW GEN Z

Key Takeaway

Engage Gen Zers through interactive and shareable content or short videos that they can use as a conversation starter with others.

Finding

Gen Zers prefer interactive content and short videos that are applicable to their experiences and personalized to them.

Quote

“I wouldn’t download Tinder to fall in love, I’d just download it to meet new people.”

- Avery, female, age 18

“I like brands that are forward, direct, and honest.”

- Jon, male, age 18

“I’m looking for a well-known and trusted dating app that other people use and like. I wouldn’t use something random or unheard of.”

- Nora, female, age 18

Gen Zers are skeptical and critical of traditional advertisements because they feel like companies lack transparency.

Statistic

92% of 16-24-year-olds watch short online videos, with 53% sharing the videos with others.

Gen Zers are far more likely to feel anxious, frustrated, and dissatisfied than other generations.

79% of Gen Zers trust companies more if the images the brand uses are not Photoshopped and 84% trust a company more if it uses actual customers in its ads.

When Gen Zers are asked to rate their trust in the media on a scale of 1 (low trust) to 10 (high trust), on average, they would rate their confidence at a 3.

Gen Zers are looking for ways to avoid, escape, and relieve stress. They will likely be drawn to brands that can offer them feelings of consistency and comfort.

Key Takeaway

Communicate to Gen Zers the idea that Tinder can offer fun and engaging experiences that help them relieve stress and interact with others.

Communication with Gen Zers must be truthful and transparent. Tinder should convey that it is a carefree and fun way to meet new people, regardless of your intentions.

Finding and implementing innovative and authentic advertising techniques will increase interaction, trust, and credibility.
Since its founding in 2012, Tinder has been a trailblazer in the online dating industry. To inform our campaign, we conducted extensive primary and secondary research on how Tinder is perceived by Gen Z today.

SWOT ANALYSIS

STRENGTHS
- High level of brand awareness among Gen Z
- Gen Z uses Tinder for meeting people, for example: swipe nights
- Tinder’s features are flexible to fit the user’s needs, such as sexual orientation and preference filters

WEAKNESSES
- Tinder’s negative hookup reputation hinders registrations among Gen Z
- Gen Z fears being judged by peers for using Tinder
- Tinder lacks a distinct brand niche compared to other dating apps

OPPORTUNITIES
- Gen Z is in a transition phase and is open to new experiences
- Gen Z prefers marketing that focuses on the brand story itself, not the product
- Gen Z values collectivity and is easily influenced by others

THREATS
- The market is heavily saturated with advertisements targeting Gen Z
- Gen Z may assume they will meet people naturally in their new environments
- Gen Z’s attention is scattered due to the variety of social media apps
TARGET AUDIENCES

Based on psychographics and behavioral traits, Team 516 identified the two types of Gen Zers who will encourage others to register and use Tinder more frequently and create a more positive perception of Tinder’s brand as a whole.

PRIMARY AUDIENCE

The Cautious Observer: Taylor, 18
- Described as tentative, practical, intentional, reliable, modest, and observant
- Routine-oriented and thoughtful decision maker
- Traditional when it comes to dating, and seeks lasting connections and organic relationships
- Requires an “extra push” to try new things from influential people in their life

SECONDARY AUDIENCE

The Fearless Seeker: Alex, 19
- Described as bold, flirtatious, social, positive, outgoing, and adventurous
- Confident socialite who seeks new experiences and loves to bring others along
- Doesn’t take life too seriously and has a “whatever happens, happens” mentality, especially with dating
- Constantly engages with current trends and actively posts on social media

TERTIARY AUDIENCES

We have also identified two tertiary groups that can serve as future opportunities for Tinder. While our campaign will unintentionally build awareness among these groups, targeted marketing efforts will be necessary in order to build brand love.

The Curious Partner, 18
This group consists of people who are currently in a relationship and have little experience using dating apps. However, they love hearing stories about friends’ experiences and are open minded about what Tinder has to offer.

The Progressive Activist, 19
This group is made up of passionate, cause-oriented, and “woke” individuals. Priding themselves on cultural and political awareness, they’re vocal about their beliefs and make an effort to hold brands accountable.
INSIGHTS & KPIS

KEY INSIGHTS

Tinder’s purpose, often misunderstood, is to connect users with the people and experiences they’re looking for.

TURN THE PAGE WITH TINDER

18-19-year-olds are entering a new chapter of their lives (such as graduating high school or moving out on their own). We will show how Tinder can help them adjust to new environments.

SHATTER THE STIGMA

We will show 18-19-year-olds that swiping is a low-stakes, easy, and carefree way to meet people and start new relationships.

CRAFT A MESSAGE THAT STICKS

To reach 18-19-year-olds, we have to share a message that is honest, accessible, and consistent with Tinder’s brand by using platforms like Instagram, TikTok, and Pinterest.

KEY PERFORMANCE INDICATORS

We aren’t just f*cking around, evaluating success is key.

INCREASE BRAND CONSIDERATION

We plan to increase consideration of Tinder by 50%, tracked through social media management tools, analytics sites, and QR code scans.

INCREASE POSITIVE SENTIMENT

We plan to increase positive sentiment of Tinder by 50%, and track engagement provided by social media posts and digital ads including number of followers gained, shares, and click-through rates.

INCREASE PREFERENCE

We plan to increase preference of Tinder by 20%, tracked through surveys, polls, questionnaires, and positive mentions or reviews.

INCREASE REGISTRATIONS

We plan to increase registrations among 18-19-year-olds by 10%, tracked through user data and App Store Connect.
Our campaign shifts perceptions of Tinder from being solely a hookup app to a connection app, with many uses based on the individual’s goal, thus building brand love. Our advertisements on social media platforms and influencer partnerships pique our audience’s interest in the Tinder brand and encourage users to engage with Tinder’s content. After internalizing our campaign message, Tinder’s users consider the countless other possibilities that the app offers. They consult friends and peers about their experiences. 18-19-year-olds register for Tinder and develop a newfound excitement and interest. They look forward to using the app in their daily lives to make connections. Our audience evaluates their usage of Tinder and realizes they find swiping to be fun and enjoy the opportunities to meet others. Our target audiences have found their "why" for Tinder. They frequently engage with the brand on social media platforms and are vocal with their friends about the benefits of the app. Hesitant Taylor is off to new adventures — leaving for college and moving to a new city. It’s exciting, but scary. Taylor wonders “How will I meet new people?” Taylor gets a part-time job as a barista at Starbucks and meets the Fearless Seeker, Alex. Taylor was surprised to learn Alex met their previous partner on Tinder and their other coworkers loved swiping on the app. At work, Taylor loves hearing about all the brave, spontaneous, and exciting things Alex did over the weekend. Taylor starts to wonder – “What if I downloaded Tinder? Would meeting people be easier?” Taylor mentions to Alex that they are thinking about joining Tinder. “It’s not what people think it is,” Alex responds. “Just try it out! It’s a lot more fun than you think.” Taylor registers for Tinder after work. Taylor becomes immersed in their new city by chatting with people on Tinder, and frequently grabs coffee with their matches. Alex teases, “How did you ever live without Tinder!” Taylor shares with friends how much fun they’ve had on Tinder. On social media, Taylor shares their story of how Tinder helped make the new city feel like home and encourages friends to use the app too.
Our bold and unapologetic slogan will capture Gen Zer’s attention, while communicating that the app has more than one purpose. Tinder is not just for f*cking. Tinder is whatever you want it to be; for flirting, finding friends, having fun, and so much more.

WHY IT WORKS FOR...

CAUTIOUS OBSERVERS
Our primary target audience is hesitant to be associated with the negative stigma that Tinder holds. By showing them that Tinder can be for anything they want, we eliminate the notion that Tinder is solely for hooking up. This will encourage them to think of Tinder as a platform where they can step out of their comfort zone.

FEARLESS SEEKERS
We shift the perception of Tinder in the eyes of our Fearless Seekers by refreshing them on all the opportunities the app provides, making sure to build brand love through humorous and relatable content. This campaign gives Fearless Seekers a reason to fall back in love with Tinder’s fierce, bold, and unapologetic brand.

TINDER
Our audience doesn’t want to register for an app perceived to be for solely hooking up. Our campaign works for Tinder because it rewrites the narrative and shows our target audience the many uses of the app. By redefining the app’s purpose, we are widening the audience interested in exploring Tinder all while increasing brand love and registrations.

TACTIC:
“Tinder Talk with Emma Chamberlain” would be filmed in Chamberlain’s home for a casual but personal ambiance as she communicates the message that Tinder is not just for f*cking. These 15 and 30-second video spots would be displayed on Hulu, Vevo, and YouTube.

RATIONALE:
Emma Chamberlain has 9.98 million Youtube subscribers, with 86.11% between the ages of 18-24. In the year of 2021, Chamberlain grew 21k subscribers weekly and is projected to have 10,933,723 subscribers by January 2022.

HULU:
36% of Hulu customers in the United States are between the ages of 18 and 29, making it one of the most popular streaming services amongst Gen Z. With over 25 million users on ad-supported packages, an ad on Hulu will reach millions of people.

VEVO:
Our target audience is 124% more likely to use Vevo than the general population.

YOUTUBE:
Our target audience is 42% more likely to use YouTube than the general population.

H&M PARTNERSHIP

WE F*CKING CARE ABOUT THE PLANET
Gen Z prioritizes activism and is concerned with social issues. Since the environment is an important consideration for our target audience, a partnership with an environmentally conscious brand, such as H&M, will appeal to Gen Z.

TACTIC:
H&M’s new Conscious Collection is taking the lead on reducing the fashion industry’s environmental impact. Partnering with H&M’s trendy and affordable brand, shows that Tinder cares about the environment — while also giving Gen Z the opportunity to wear fun and provocative merch which emphasizes the brand’s message of “not just for f*cking.”

RATIONALE:
93% of Gen Z believes brands have an obligation to take a stand on environmental issues. The merch creates a sense of community, one of Gen Z’s values, as our influencers, event helpers, and Tinder U reps are given apparel to wear throughout the campaign.

GOAL: Increasing positive sentiment and preference
TRACKED THROUGH: Apparel purchases and “add to cart” goal completion through SimilarWeb and Google Analytics
CEDSIUS PARTNERSHIP

GOAL: Increasing brand consideration

TRACKED THROUGH: The number of Celsius cans passed out, number of QR codes scanned and actions taken through the LinkTree

WE GOT THE HOOK UPS
Tinder and Celsius will partner to create a bold, new flavor, known as Flirty Fruit Punch, giving our Fearless Seekers and Cautious Observers the energy to go beyond their comfort zone. The cans, distributed at college move-in events, will incorporate Tinder’s iconic colors and a unique QR code that scans directly to a LinkTree.

TACTIC:
New students will find Tinder’s move-in event tent in a central campus location and experience an immediate sense of excitement, curiosity, and community. Open to new experiences, students will crack open a Celsius, scan the can’s QR code which will direct them to Tinder’s LinkTree. There, they’ll gain exclusive access to additional promotions.

RATIONALE:
College move-in day is exciting, yet exhausting, for thousands of new students across the U.S. each year. Tinder plans to increase students’ energy and decrease their stress by providing a welcoming, low-pressure area centered around meeting new people.

THE NEWBIE NECESSITIES
Nothing says welcome to college like a ton of free sh*t. Those who scan the QR code may have the opportunity to rep Tinder’s merch on campus.

TACTIC:
Students who scan the can’s QR code and sign up for Tinder through the LinkTree, will have a chance to win The Newbie Necessities merchandise package. 1 in 1,000 new users who scan the QR code will receive the following items:

- FLAME HAT
- QR CODE CARD
- HYDRO FLASK
- KEY RING
- PHONE WALLET
- STICKER

RATIONALE:
Each of these items is highly popular among our 18-19-year-old target audience. As the winners wear and use these products, it will continue to promote the company and cultivate brand love.
INFLUENCERS

CODY KO AND KELSEY KREPPEL

29-year-old YouTuber Cody Ko found success through his comedic videos. Ko’s variety of social followings are no match for his 5.39 million subscribers on YouTube. Kreppel is a “lifestyle focused” YouTuber who vlogs and collaborates with her boyfriend, Ko.

TACTIC:
Wearing Tinder H&M merch, Cody and Kelsey Kreppel will create a series of three TikToks and one YouTube video reviewing best and worst pickup lines, using funny submissions from his viewers.

RATIONALE:
Our audience is 42% more likely to use YouTube than the general population. With a subscriber count in the top 1%, Ko is the perfect candidate to represent Tinder through his bold and comedic videos.

POKIMANE

Twitch is one of the most popular streaming services, with 26.5 million daily active users and 140 million monthly active users. Advertising on Twitch consists primarily of stream-integrated advertisements.

TACTIC:
In September 2021, Pokimane will wear Tinder H&M merch in five Twitch livestreams. These organic product placements reach a wider audience than traditional socials, showing that Tinder is for everyone.

RATIONALE:
Pokimane is the seventh most popular streamer on Twitch with an average of 166,458 daily video views. Gen Z is also 281% more likely to use Twitch than the general population.

MICRO-INFLUENCERS

These micro-influencers will partner with Tinder to combat the false notion that Tinder is only for f*cking by highlighting the endless possibilities that can come from the app.

TRACKED THROUGH: Influencer management platforms such as IZEA
Quizlet, Ticketmaster, and BuzzFeed are all popular websites among our target audience. Therefore, developing website banner advertisements and in-app pop-ups will directly engage Gen Zers. Additionally, location-based targeting will be utilized by geo-fencing university campuses.

QUIZLET TACTIC:
Tinder’s banner ads on Quizlet will promote the H&M partnership. We will start these ads in October and continue through the end of November. This will increase audience awareness and consideration of purchasing Tinder H&M products during Black Friday and Cyber Monday.

RATIONALE:
19% of the users on Quizlet are ages 18-24 making Quizlet a prime location for reaching our target audience.

TICKETMASTER TACTIC:
Tinder banner ads will run on Ticketmaster prior to Tinder’s attendance at the Governors Ball music festival. With this festival taking place in September, these ads will run from August through September.

RATIONALE:
Our target audience are 59% more likely to visit Ticketmaster than the general population.

BUZZFEED TACTIC:
Tinder’s banner ads on BuzzFeed will be targeted towards college students. These ads will encourage students to get out of their comfort zone and meet new people through Tinder. These ads will run from September through November, during a majority of the fall semester.

RATIONALE:
Our target audience are 135% more likely to visit BuzzFeed than the general population.

SAY LESS, SAY YES TO TINDER

Thomas Brag, Ammar Kandil, and Matt Dajer are the founders of the digital media brand and YouTube channel Yes Theory, which currently has more than 6.4 million subscribers. Yes Theory’s mission to “seek discomfort” remains, capturing life’s beautiful moments, and making meaningful connections.

The rules are simple: Submit a video introducing yourself and sharing your dream date. Tinder will handle the match-making, and Yes Theory will make it happen. Be ready to step outside your comfort zone and see the endless possibilities with Tinder. One lucky match will be chosen, and a video spot will be filmed of their dream date to be used after the campaign has ended.

TACTIC:

Be ready to step outside your comfort zone and see the endless possibilities with Tinder. One lucky match will be chosen, and a video spot will be filmed of their dream date to be used after the campaign has ended.

RATIONALE:
Gen Z is 42% more likely to use YouTube in comparison to the general population. Yes Theory aligns with Tinder’s mission of taking risk for experience and connection, a step required to meet our brand objectives.
GOV BALL SILENT DISCO

GOAL: Increasing positive sentiment

TRACKED THROUGH: Number of tent attendees, feedback from attendees, Tinder mentions, QR code scans, and LinkTree analytics

THE GOVERNORS BALL

Location: New York, NY
Date: September 24-25
Estimated number of attendees: 150,000

TURN UP @ TINDER’S TENT

Tinder will be sponsoring a silent disco tent at The Governors Ball music festival

TACTIC:

Prior to Governors Ball, we will utilize location-based targeting through Ticketmaster banner ads in the surrounding cities of the festival. These ads will promote our central idea, Tinder is not just for f*cking, as well as share the tent’s purpose, having fun with others. Tinder will provide 500 attendees with headphones that are queued to three DJs playing Tinder playlists on Spotify. With users dancing and partaking in the silent disco, they can search for a person listening to the same playlist — facilitating new friends and connections.

RATIONALE:

26% of all Spotify users are members of Gen Z. 69% of Gen Z Spotify Users support the idea of finding a sense of community through music. We chose to have Tinder attend this festival because of the location and popularity among college students in the surrounding area.
FOOTBALL GAMES

PUT ME IN, TINDER

81% of Gen Zers want to attend large events post COVID-19, with 35% of Gen Zers most excited to attend sporting events.

TACTIC:
Besides incentivizing Tinder downloads at the Celsius move-in event, scanning the QR code will also allow the user to enter a drawing to win a seat in an exclusive stadium section. The QR code directs individuals to a LinkTree where they can enter the drawing; 50 lucky winners will receive a Tinder H&M shirt to wear and rep on game day in the Tinder section.

RATIONALE:
HOW DID WE CHOOSE THESE GAMES?
In 2019, there was an average of 41,477 fans per NCAA Division I game, and these five games soared well above those averages. Collectively, these schools drew in 412,254 fans in 2019, averaging 82,450 people attending each game. These rivalry games are also held at some of the largest stadiums in the United States, with Michigan’s stadium coming in at number one.
We’ve created a fully-integrated national media campaign from August 1, 2021 to December 15, 2021. Google Trends indicates that interest in Tinder is highest during the first week of September, influencing our decision to spend heavily throughout that month. We will introduce the campaign in August to capitalize on back-to-school events and end in December prior to the noise of the holiday season. Now that’s f*cking fire.

CAMPAIGN EVALUATION

MAINTENANCE
Our four-and-a-half-month campaign will be monitored and optimized based on performance. In week four of each month we will gather the reports of each execution and evaluate the highest performing content. We will then make adjustments based on new considerations.

EVALUATING PREFERENCE AND SENTIMENT
➢ Monitor feedback
  • Positive reviews and mentions on social media platforms, forums, blogs, articles, TikToks and YouTube videos
  • Attendance at move-in events, football games, and the silent disco tent
➢ Conduct further primary research
  • Focus groups, polls, questionnaires, in-depth interviews, and surveys

EVALUATING BRAND CONSIDERATION, SENTIMENT, AND REGISTRATIONS
• Impressions, participation, followers gained, shares, and engagement through IZEAS, Programmatic, Sprout Social, Facebook Business Manager, and Hootsuite
• Click-through rate, conversion rate, goal completion through SimilarWeb, Google Analytics, H&M website, and LinkTree analytics
• User data and App Store Connect

LINKTREE TRACKING
TACTIC:
All of the QR codes utilized throughout this campaign will link directly to Tinder’s LinkTree. LinkTree is a social media reference page used to organize websites and platforms for engagement.

RATIONALE:
Through the analytics, such as views, clicks, and an average click-through rate, directly offered through LinkTree.

CONCLUSION

HERE’S A RECAP, NO CAP

Throughout our campaign, Team 516 has turned the page, shattered the stigma, and crafted a message that sticks. We have fulfilled your objectives by building brand love, increasing consideration, preference and sentiment while boosting registrations among 18-19-year-olds thanks to a full-funnel marketing approach. Tinder is a journey that, through research, has shown to be untraveled because of the negative and confined perception of the brand among the Gen Z audience. As a result of this campaign, the Cautious Observers consider the app for themselves; with the help of the Fearless Seekers, they register for Tinder. Finally, the experience can work its magic. Experiencing Tinder cultivates a new sense of wonder as users realize the joy and excitement Tinder adds to their lives, motivating them to share the experience with others.

WE MET YOUR OBJECTIVES BY:

- Identifying our Fearless Seekers and Cautious Observers as our target audiences and utilizing both audiences to help each other through the full-funnel approach
- Using social media to meet and engage with our audience to spark interest by redefining the app’s purpose
- Addressing the negative perception of Tinder in our bold campaign slogan to grab our target audience’s attention and rewriting the narrative
- Partnering with influencers and brands that our target audience responds to in order to increase consideration and preference
- Creating unique experiences and events for our target audience to meet new people, building brand love
- Utilizing channels with measurable outcomes for evaluation of campaign success

We know that you have many options to swipe through, but we hope you’ll match with Team 516 because we aren’t f*cking around.
