

A MESSAGE FROM TCU'S VICE PROVOST FOR RESEARCH

The Boller Review has a long and storied history of highlighting the best and brightest undergraduate student researchers at TCU. This edition features outstanding examples of the impact Horned Frogs from every corner of campus are making through research, scholarship, and creative activity. I extend my sincere thanks to student editor Trinity Sloan and her entire team for their excellent work in bringing these stories to life. This collective work is one of many examples for why we chose to work in higher education. Here at TCU, we keep the main thing the main thing.
